AD CLARISSIMUM VIRVM

Robertum Dudleyum, Leicestriae Comitem, Regiae maiestati a consiliis, & Oxoniensis Academiae Cancellarium, Thomae Cooperi, de

Theauri dedicatione, epistola.

V M superioribus annis (illustrissime vir) in subsidium studiosae iuuentutis Eliora Dictionarium Latinoanglicum ma-ximis laboribus conficeret: mihi visus est vir doctus & pru-dens mente cogitationeque prospexisse, in quantas angustias etate subsequente res literaria prolapsura videretur. Postquam enim nostra memoria, propter graues temporum & religionis mutationes, antistites Ecclesiae verbiq; ministri, etiam salutis & fortunarum trahi ceperunt: mirum profecto quam ex eo tempore quotidie magis deiecta sit iuuentutis spes et industria, quam ubiq; contemptae iacuerint artes & disciplinae. Nam cum illud vitae genus, cuius antea dignitas et amplitudo quasi premium studiosorum laboribus propositum fuit, iam vel, quod multi putant, coniunctam habeat ignominiam, vel, quod impii sperant, imminerirem calamitatem: et parentes, suorum prospicientes commodis, alia vitae instituta liberis praescribunt: et ipsi iuuenes, vulgi potius existimationem quam rerum dignitatem sequentes, ad quiduis sunt promptiores, quam ad diuturnas studiorum mo-lestias sine certo fructu perferendas. Hinc itaq; fit, quod à praeclaris ingeniis praemature destituantur Academiae et scholae publicae, multosq; iuuenes habeant liberaliter sanè institutos educatione doctrinaq; puerili, sed paucos admodum, qui cognitionis et scientiae cupidi, in literas illas interiores et reconditas altius penetrare studeant: nisi qui fortè ad medicinae cognitionem, aut iurisprudentiam paulo maiori impetu ferantur. Reliqui, vel abiectis studiis ad aulicam vitam confugiant, vel ad regni instituta ediscenda se conferunt, vel ad alias aetatis degendae rationes desiscunt, ex quibus ampliores credunt utilitates sibi profecturas. Quamobrem merito mihi videntur conqueri Christianae religionis praesides et viri doctissimi, quibus eiusdem hodie tradita est administratio, cum incredibili veritatis Euangelicae incommodo magnam esse in plerisq; locis ecclesiarum destitutionem, summamq; penuriam eorum, qui diuini foederis praconium suscipiant, qui Ecclesiastica munia subeant, qui reliquas literatae pietatis functiones exerceant. Cum enim ceteras reipublicae partes capescantibus certi honores magnaq; praemia proponantur, Ecclesiarum verò rectoribus & literarum magistris ad contemptum maior q̃ ad laudem locus relictus sit: non mirum si multi reperiantur, qui gloriam & dignitatem, pauci qui coniunctam cum ignominia virtutem et doctrinam persequan-tur. Sed imprudenter à me & intempestiuè hæc illata videtur querela, cum omnium iam sermone peruulgatum sit, tuo maxime consilio, & clarissimi viri Sicilli maiestatem Regiam iamdudum iniisse rationem, quemadmodum non artes solum iniuria temporis labâtes in pristinam restituantur dignitatem, sed etiam ut iuuen-tus ignauia languescens gloriae stimulis erecta magis constanter perferat graues studiorum labores. Hanc opinionem mentibus hominum infixit anno superiore Cantabrigienensis profectio: cū Regia maiestas in ipsis quasi Musarum delubris, non solū praesentia sua declarauit honestissimarum artium cultores sibi et curae fuisse & delectationi, sed etiam splendida & illustri oratione studiosorum animos ad sin-gularem quandam spem amplissimorum virtutis & industriae praemiorum concita-bat. Verè quidem illa principis officio fungitur & illustris et immortalis pradicatione

tatione dignæ. Postquã enim strepitus armorum et bellorum tumultus prudentissimis consiliis sedauit, ad pacis rationes componendas incumbit: vt linguarum peritia vigeat, vt humanitatis disciplinæ floreat, vt laudabilium artium doctrina in pretio sit, summo studio contendit. Quia in re licet ipsius præcipuè virtus & prudentia eluceat, vestra tamen non exigua laus est, qui in eiusdem societatem consilii venistis. Vestris enim monitis, vestris hortatibus, et excitata est et confirmata Regiæ Celsitudinis industria. Quamobrem diuino certè beneficio factum puto, vt his temporibus Academia nostrates, præclaræ Musarum sedes, vos inprimis duos habeant patronos: quos omnes vident, & singulari quadam naturæ bonitate, & incredibili Reipublicæ studio liberalium disciplinarum suscepisse defensionem & propagationem. Satis enim intelligit vestra prudentia, nihil esse in natura rerum, quod tam fusa in omnes partes habeat commoda, quam humanitas atque doctrina. Nam præclara hæc et eximia communium literarum est vtilitas, quod earum conformatio, si vel ad mediocres naturas accesserit, incredibilem vim prudentiæ, consilii, dignitatis, ad omnes Reipublicæ partes constituendas profert. Quis enim non videt, quantum possit humanitatis et disciplinæ institutio, in vero numinis cultu promouendo, in religione confirmanda, in moribus erudiendis, in obeundis legationibus, in exponendis Principis Senatûsue mandatis, in suasionem aut dissuasionem legum, consiliorum tractatione, causis publicis, iudiciis, cæterisque rebus omnibus, quibus administratio Reipublicæ cõtinetur? Labantibus igitur literarum studiis, et maxime reipublicæ vtilitates simul cõcidunt. Pro cognitione et scientia, turpissima rerum omnium ignoratio: pro sincero dei cultu, anilis superstitio: pro dicendi facultate, stupida infantia: pro consilii copia et vbertate, mentis et iudicii inopia: pro exulta morum elegantia, agrestis et inamœna rusticitas: pro mansuetudine et humanitate, barbara quædam feritas in vitam hominum inuadit. Quamobrem (vir præclarissime) quod liberalissimarum artium te patronum et defensorem præbeas, quod ad eorum consilia te adiunxeris, qui de suscitanda literarum dignitate cogitant, et Reipublicæ maximam cõcilias vtilitatem, et immortalem tibi laudem nominisq; prædicationem. Huius enim facti grata erit in omnem posteritatem recordatio. Præclara quidẽ semper habita sunt ista in splendidis et illustribus viris, vt sua virtute et industria iuris et legum æquabilitatem seruent, ciues in officio contineant, seditiosos pacis perturbatores reprimant, ab externis bellis patriam defendant: sed vulgares hæc nobilium virorum laudes sunt, et cum multis communes. Ista verò eximia sunt et singularia, summo studio curare, vt procul à regni finibus exterminetur infantia: vt longius amandetur fœda rerum ignoratio: vt suum locum virtus et ingenii gloria consequatur: vt, qui studiis et artibus honos debetur, studiis et artibus honos deferatur. Verum vt pauci sunt, qui harum rerum gloriam expetunt: ita qui diuinitus excitati in eam rem incumbunt, ab omnibus maiori et honore, et admiratione digni existimantur. Sed hæc cura non claros modò viros, et eos qui cum dignitate sunt in Republica debet attingere, sed omnes præterea bonos ciues, et inprimis eos, qui literarum causa cupiunt. Quorum è numero cū ego me profitear esse: cum officio meo coniunctum arbitror, vt aliquid in communem studiosorum fructum proferam. Omnes itaq; ingenii mei facultates, cuiusquemodi sunt, in hunc vtriusq; linguæ Thesaurum contuli: vt, qui in re literaria tenuiores sunt, hinc petant, quo suam possint inopiam sustentare, donec per se maiores orationis diuitias sibi comparent. Cæteras artes et scientias alii suo tempore promouebunt, ego pro virili mea parte studui, vt hac ratione iuuenibus nostris aliquantò facilius esset aditus ad Latinæ linguæ cognitionem atq; facultatem. Hic enim non solum cuiusq; vocabuli vernacuvernaculam interpretationem variam et copiosam reperient: sed etiam ex attipissimo Roberti Stephani Thesauro commodissime congestas locutionum formulas, quibus eiusdem apud probatos auctores usus, quantumvis multiplex, indicatur. Ex eisdem etiam subscriptis locutionum exemplis intelligant, cuiusmodi in illustribus scriptoribus adiuncta sint nominibus epitheta, quæ verbis eleganter aduerbia connectantur, quæ interdum antitheta et contraria, quæ nomina quibus verbis, quæ item verba quibus nominibus aptè cohæreant. Genera verborum et nominum, inflectionem, accentum, deriuationem, nusq̃ penè prætermisi: vt illorum etiam confulerem industriæ, quibus deest viuæ vocis institutio. Ascripta sunt ubiq; authorum nomina: vt non obscurum esse possit, quid cuiq; debeat. Hinc etiam vel exiguo negotio depromant sibi non contemnendum apparatus verborum et locutionum, siue de re aliqua dicendum sit, siue scribendum. Accedunt et ista non exigua commoda: quod hic Latini sermonis elegantiam et concinnitatem obseruent, quod eiusdem cum nostro idiomate consensionem intelligant, quod in suis scriptis ad optimorū authorū imitationē se facilius componant. Quamobrem hic vnus liber omnia videtur adferre subsidia & adiumenta, quibus iuuenes instructi laudabilem orationis facultatem consequantur. Hoc quicquid est laboris et industriæ, quod in Thesauro nostro congerendo locui, tibi inprimis (vir ornatissime) dicendum arbitror. Oxonienses enim, si quid in literis hoc tempore moliantur operosius, si quid in lucem profectendum statuunt, id censent tuæ Dignitati tum iure, tum merito deberi. Si enim qui fundum studiosè colendum, diligenter conferendum, eleganter exornandum curat, eiusdem proventus iure sibi vendicat: æquum etiam videri deber, vt quos studiorum fructus Oxoniensis Academia profert, eos tibi solus auferas, qui tam libenter eam & studio foues, & consilio regis, & autoritate defendis. Cum igitur ego semper alumnus huius scholæ fuerim: non video quemadmodum sine iusta ingratitudinis reprehensione possim non tibi labores meos consecrare. Quod tamen non ea spe facio, vt mea dicatione ad tuas quicquam laudes accedat. Quid enim ad solis splendorem lucernæ lichnioliue lumen, aut ad immensam maris magnitudinem quid potest adferre stilla muria? Ad eum vero laudum tuarum cumulum, quem præclarissimarum virtutum ornamentis tibi comparasti, multo minus hac inscriptione additur. Me tamen nominis tui splendore ad huius lucubrationis obscuritatem illustrandam abuti, non grauitur, vt spero, pati. Nam & ea es humanitate, vt oblata munuscula non tam suo pondere, quam offerentium voluntate meritis: & ea grauitate atq; constantia, vt quarum modo literarum tutelam suscepis, earum iam nolis fructus quantumvis exiguos aspernari. Hunc itaq; Thesaurum literarium tibi exhibeo testem & animi in te mei, & omniū tuorum Oxoniensium voluntatis. Quem si pro solita benignitate tua in bonam acceperis partem, diuitiarum certè tuarum cumulo non multum, humanitatis commendationi plurimum accesserit.

studiosi lectores admonentur de ratione & ordine istius libri, ne fortè in quarendis dictionibus vel errent vel hæsitent.

Ordinem alphabeticum diligenter in omnibus seruaui, præterq̃ in illis vocabulis quæ ab alijs deducuntur. Nam, quæ Grammatici vocant derivatiua, reieci ad suos fontes, vnde promanant et profluunt. Vt istæ dictiones Esario, Esuriens, Esuries, Esartio, &c. non habentur in alphabetica serie, sed post verbum Edos à quo derivantur. Quam rationem ideo putavi vtiliorem fore, quod facile iuuenis cognoscat, vtrum dictio, de qua dubitatur, primogenia sit, an deductitia: & si deductitia, à quo tandem trahatur, & quos habeat generis consortes. Suis tamen locis in alphabetico ordine reperies, vbi ista, post suas origines, querenda sint.

Vernaculas phrasium & locutionum interpretationes de industria plurimis in locis inuenies mancas & imperfectas. Vt in verbo Colligo, istæ locutioni, Colligare impetum suuentis, adieci interpretationis causa tantummodo, to repressè, &c. reliquam partem sententiæ reliqui industriae lectoris. Item, in Circulus, ista sententia, Circulus suos orbisq̃, conficiunt celeritate mirabili stellas, hanc imperfectam habet adiunctam expositionem: Co they courses with marvellous, &c. Vbi vides eius duntaxat partis expositionem, quæ difficillima sit, & quæ pertinet ad vocabulum, cuius vsus eo loco describitur: cetera consulto prætermis. Hanc rationem licet multis fortasse minus probatam, me tamen vel inuitum persequi coegit studium breuitatis: quam licet & hac in re, & alijs quibuscunque potui modis secutus sum, vides tamen plus iusto voluminis magnitudinem creuisse.

Non defuturos scio, qui vernaculam interpretationem reprehendant, tanq̃ multis in locis parum commodè latinis respondentem. Sed ab æquis lectoribus vehementer contendo, vt iudicium suum differant, donec in eum locum inciderint, vnde phrasès ipsæ desumptæ sunt. In maternum enim sermonem transfudi, non eo quidem sensu, quem prima fronte præ se ferre videntur Latina: sed iuxta mentem & sententiā authoris, quem citavi. Exempli causa, in Vinus sic legent, Vini peruenimus illuc. Virg. Statim expectabant hanc interpretationem, We came thither aliue. Sed ego sensum authoris secutus, sic verti: We have liued to see that. Item in Tardities Cursu corrigere tarditatem, hunc in modum interpretatus sum: With more speede to make amends for his slovenesse before time. At multi credent magis appositè me vertisse, si dixissem, To amende his sloynesse with running. Quæ interpretatio longè discrepasset ab authoris sententiā. Hæc pauca satis fuerit exempli causa demonstrasse: cum tamen alia plurima sint eiusdem generis.

Omnis dictio, quæ ex classicis et probatis authoribus depromitur, habet authoris nomen ascriptum. Quod si qua non habuerit, eam scito vel Græcam esse, nec dum in satis probatum vsum Latini sermonis pertractam: vel eiusmodi Latinam, quæ in laudatis scriptoribus non reperiatur.

Locutionum formulæ post vnumquodque vocabulum non temerè et confusè, sed alphabetica serie commodissimè congestæ sunt, vt minori negotio se querentibus offerant.

Vbiunque repereris hanc notam ascriptam. ¶ ibi scito vel significationem, vel vsum dictionis nonnihil discrepare ab eo, quod proxime superius præcellerat.

Non

Non inutile mihi videtur, vt, propositis quibusdam exemplis, quasi digito tyronibus demon-strem, quem fructum possint ex hoc Thesauro decerpere. Quæ res si fortè à me tractabitur magis crassa Minerva, q̃ vt profectionibus & exercitatis gratum esse possit: cogitent me eorum maximè causa facere, qui destituti magistris viux vocis institutionem non sunt consecuti. Hanc item rationem si illi Literarum magistri, qui per se meliorem excogitare non possunt, in suis prælectionibus obseruare voluerint, non inutilem meo iudicio nauabunt operam.

So much as the buskilfull or yong learned Scholars can not of themselves conceyue the vse of this booke, I haue thought it good by examples to note vnto them, what fruit & comodity they may take thereof, in so plaine forme or māner as I can deuise.
Pysse therefore they may here learne, what parte of speech the word is. For Polunes and Verbes may be knowen by their declining, which commonly is here noted: and the other parts are expressely named: as, Particples, Aduerbes, Coniunctions, &c. Next, they may see, what accent it should haue, & howe it is to be pronounced, as, Piscina, penult prod. not Pisema. If it be a Polune, they may know whether it be Adiectiue or Substantiue. For Adiectiues be expressely noted most commonly, and Substantiues may be perceyued by their Gender and Declension. If it be a Substantiue, let them marke, what Gender it is, and of what Declension. The Gender both is added most commonly, and where it is not, may be learned by the phyzases following: and the Declension may be gathered by the Genitiue case. As, Dux, is noted to be the common Gender, and the Genitiue case Ducis, sheweth it to be the thyrd Declension. Ducatus, is noted to be the Masculine gender, and Ducatus the Genitiue case declareth it to be the fourth Declension.
Then may they further learne, whether the worde be a Primitiue, or Deriuatiue deduced of some other. For all the Deriuatiues are set with their significatiōs and phyzases, in a smaller Latine letter after their Primitiues. As, after this Primitiue, Duco, followeth Ducens, Ductus, Ducatus, Dux, Ductor, Dues, rarius, Ductilis, Ductum. Wherby w̃ great profite they may learne, as it were, y whole progenie & offspring of any word. Next, let them further marke y diuers significatiōs of the word, & the manifold constructions ons and vses of the same, be it Verbe, Polune, or other. As, Certamen, sometime significth a game, or play: as, lex Certaminis. Sometime stryfe, debate, contention: as, Certamen est mihi cum illo. Sometime fight or battaile: as, consere Certamen. This diuersity of significatiōs I haue not only noted together confusely in the syrt exposition of the word, but after ward also distynctly each by it self, with the phyzases to the same belonging: which he may find out by this Paragraffe ¶ which is noted wheresoever epyther the significatiō, or the vse of the thing altereth. In a Verbe they haue to note, whether it be Primitiue or Deriuatiue, of what Coniugation it is, what is the Præterperfect tense and Supines, what diuersitie of significatiōs, and varietie of constructions it hath. As, Contendo, being in the bigger sorte of letter, is declared to be a Primitiue, and hath deduced of it these Deriuatiues, Contentus, Contente, Contentio, Con- tentiosus, &c. The Coniugation may be knowen by the termination of the Infinitiue mode Contendere, there added. The Præterperfect tense, and the Supines are expresse as well in this worde, as all other.
Contendi, sometime significth to bende: as, Contendere arcum. Sometime to stretch: as, Ilia se contendere.
Sometime to strayne harde: as, Contendere vincula. Sometime to go to: as, Contendit Romanum. Sometime to endeuoure: as, Contendere omnibus ne uis. Sometime earnestly to desire: as, Omnis studio à te mi Brute contendo. Sometime to contende: as, Contendo de honore. Sometime to compare: as, Contendere rem ali- quam cum alia. The diuersitie of construction of all other poyntes is especially to be obserued, which oftentymes chaungeth, as the significatiō altereth. As, Contendo, significyng to stretch or bende, sometime hath an Accusatiue case onely, as Contendere populum: sometime an Accusatiue with an Ablatiue: as, Ilia se contendere. When it significth to go, it hath sometime an Accusatiue alone: as, Romam contendit: sometime an other Accusatiue with ad: as, Contendere cursum ad aliquem: sometime an Accusatiue with ad, onely: as, Contendit ad patrem: sometime an Accusatiue with in, or ad, and also an Ablatiue, as Magnis itineribus contendere in Italiam, vel ad exercitum. When it significth to endeuoure, sometime it is vsed absolutely, as Eniti et contendere debet: sometime wyth an Ablatiue: as, Labore contendere: sometime an Infinitiue mode, as Dyrbachium petere contendit: sometime an Accusatiue wyth contra, and vt, following: as, Contra grauitatem morbi contendit, vt consequatur &c. Sometime an Accusatiue with ad, and an Ablatiue: as, Maximis periculis ad summam laudem contendere: sometime an Aduerbe, as Frustra contendere. When it significth to desire, it is most commonly vsed with an Accusatiue of the thing, and an Ablatiue with a, or ab, of the persō: as, Hoc à me contendebat: sometime in steade of the Accusatiue, an other Ablatiue is added with de: as, Pompeius ve- bementer à me contendit de reditu in gratiam: In place of which Ablatiue may be vsed y Subiunctiue mode w̃ vt, as, Contendit à me vt redeam in gratiam. When it significth to stryue or contende, it hath sometime an Accusatiue wyth aduersum, or contra: as, Summa vi contendere aduersum, vel contra aliquem: sometime a Dative: as, Hyrcano contendit Qyntus: sometime an Ablatiue with cum: as, Iure contendere cum aliquo: sometime an Accusatiue with inter, and an Ablatiue: as, Verbis inter se contendunt: sometime an Ablatiue with de: as, De ho- nore contendere. When it significth to compare, it hath sometime an Accusatiue, and an Ablatiue with cum: as, Contendere rem aliquam cum alia: sometime the Ablatiue is turned into the Dative: as, Contendere rem ali- quam alteri. And this varietie of construction is not onely to be considered in the diuersity of cases, but also of other partes vndeclined: as, in Emineo, you haue, Emineo extra terram, Eminet ante oculos, Eminet in re a- liqua, Inter omnes eminet, Eminebat ex ore crudelis, Eminet ira in suos, Eminet ferrum per costas, Eminet à mari glori- bus terre. It is also to be noted, what Aduerbes authours do vse with Verbes: as, Ciuitatē contendere, Inimi- effimū atq; infissimū cōtēdere, Palam & vehemēter cōtēdere. Whoeuē the phyzes of elegancie; and especially such as haue any good grace of Metaphors: as, Contendere nervos atatis & industria in re aliqua: Fores amicitiæ aperire: Fontem liberalitatis exaurire &c. It helpeth much also to the apte vse of the Latine tong to obserue in Verbes, with what Nounes they be well vsed: and in Nounes, what Verbes and Adiectiues they haue ioyned with them. In the Verbe Creo, besyde other you haue Accummas creare, to wocke one mi-ferie: Arbores creare, to bring forth trees: Comina creata de aliquo, Verbes made vpon one: Commoditates cre- are aliqui, to wocke one sundry commodities: Falsitūm creare, to cause lothsome nesses: Periculum creare, to procure daunger &c. In Nounes also, as I sayd, it is good to consider first, what Substantiues or Adiectiues are ioyned to them as Epithetons. In the woorde Amicitia, you haue Condimentum amicitie, Concili- deus amicitie, Fores amicitie, fontis, finis, exitus, ius, lex, ornamentum, simulatio, vinculum amicitie. Also these Nountines Ambitiosa, communis, publica, grauis, excellent, insausita, iusta, vera, stabilis, suavis, renouata, amicitia, with many other that for breuitie I rehearse not. Likewise it hath these Verbes, Comparare, contrahere, con- sequi, conciliare, generare, acquirere, perire amicitiam: conglutinare, coniungere, connectere, conjugare, constituere am- icitiam: discindere, dirumpere, dissociare, dissuere amicitiam, with many moe of like sort, which diligently to make shall both greatly helpe, not onely the knowledge of the righte vse of the Latine tong, but also the copious enriching of the same. This is not only to be done in Nounes and Verbes, but in Aduerbes, Coniunctions, and Propositions. In the apt vse whereof consisteth a great part of the elegancie of the Latine tong. Last of all, a studious yong man, with small paynes, by the helpe of this booke may gather to himselfe good furniture both of wordes and approued phyzes and fashions of speaking for any thing, that he shall eithre write or speake of, and so make vnto his vse, as it were a comon place booke for such a purpose. As in the matter of loue and frendship, if he take two or thre of the chiefe wordes belonging to that purpose, as for example, Amicus, amo, amor, and then consider the wordes deriued of them, and the phya-ses to the same belonging, there is nothing pertayning to that matter, but that he shall be able copiously to utter it. And if he adde the search of some moe wordes of that signification, as Charitas, benevolentia &c. he shall maruailously enrich that comon place. To helpe this by the example of this matter of loue or frendshippe, for so much as it is some what copious, it would be longer, than this place requireth. I will declare it by a matter of smaller vse & copie. In y^e feate of shooting you haue these two chiefe instruments, Arcus, and Sagitta. In considering the phyzes of which two, you may procure this stoze and furniture: A- cer arcus, a strong or quicke casting bowe: Vastus arcus, a lugge, or a mighty bygge bowe: Sonans arcus, a ringing bowe: Arcus laxus, remissus, retentus, a bowe bent: Arcus tentus, intentus, contentus, a bowe bent: Sumere & corripere manu arcum, to take a bowe in his hande: Arcum leniare, aut curuare, to bowe a bowe, as one doth in assaying the strenght of it, before it be bent: Arcum nervo temperare, to string a bowe: Arcum tendere, intendere, contendere, flectere, to bende a bowe: Laxare, rescindere, remittere arcum, to unbende a bowe: Arcum adducere, sinuare, lunare, to drawe a bowe: Arcu se exercere, to go on shooting, to practise shooting: Arcum laniare, dirigere, Dirigere arcum in aliquid, Obuertere arcum in aliquid, Tendere arcum aliquo, to laye bys hand towarde a thing to shote at it: Emittere vel expellere arcu sagittam, Nervo sagittam impellere, to shote: Pe- torare aliquem arcu, to shote at: Stringere aliquid arcu, Arcu ferre, infigere alicui sagittam, Configere sagitta, to hyt that he shoterh at: Sagitta stridens, an arrowe that singeth as he goeth: Sagitta leues, valucis, celeris, A- rores spiste of sight: Acuere sagittam, & asperare sagittam ferro vel cuspidē, to sette an head on an arrowe: Amari sagittis, to haue arrowes by his syde: Depromere & promere sagittam, to take forth an arrowe to shote: Corripere sagittam, to take forth an arrowe quickly: Nervus per Calum ducere sagittam, the bowe deliuereth forth the arrowe: Sagitta pendet à latere, bys arrowes are by his syde: Expeditur alimenta arcu, with his bowe to kill beastes or foule to liue by. There is moze I graunt that may be brought to this purpose; but by these and the imitation of them, any thing well nere pertayning to y^e feate may be uttered in good Latine. This haue I here noted at the request of certayne, that by their owne labour without instruction or helpe of maisters trauaile to attayne the knowledg of the Latine tong: as for other that eithre be themselves well learned, or haue good maisters, as they haue no great neede of thys booke, so haue they no neede at all of this admonition,

Alexander Nowellus in Cooperi Thesaurum.

*Congruit assiduo nummos, summoq; labore Paras condit opes inuidiosa manus.
Thesauri largas magni Cooperus amicè Pandit opes: studijs præstat opemq; tuis.
Non pretium, non te moles deterreat ista: Est multæ moles utilitate minor.
Muneris auctorem tanti reuerare iuuentus, Et fructe egregij commoditate liberi.*

THOMAS WYKYS LINCOLNI-ensis hospitij Socius, ad Thomam Cooperum.

*Temporibus nostris taceat iam barbarus Hortus: Immensas iacet nec Calepinus opes.
Fronte gerat nigro non album, Copia, cornu Cesset Nilvillus de Cicerone loqui.
Immodica caveat iam tandem laude Doletus: Thesaurum Stephanus nec super astra rehat.
Tu facilis es princeps, tuus, Cooperi candens Pæ cunctis alijs: hic liber, hic labor est.*

Eiusdem carmen Sapphicum.

*Facta non miror senioris ævi: Hic nouus vincit veteres labores:
Non labor tantus numerosa pugna Herculis Hydræ
Non ubi traxit Stygis ab undis Horridum corpus canis iniqui, Iste bisctenos superat labores Herculis omnes.
Iste serpentis rabiem bilinguis Solut Alcides premit: iste narrat Ter trium mentes stabili sororum Ecce de iunctas.
Ergo cum duro præcas labore Herculem magnam Cooperi, par est Plausus ut valsum risomet per orbem Hercule dignus.
Quisq; te iungat laribus: tuumq; Numen et nomen super astra tollat Plausibus, ludis, precibus, choreis, Laudi, triumphis.*

THOMAS VALENS LINCOLNIEN-sis hospitij Socius, ad Thomam Cooperum.

*Optime multiplici florens Cooperi loquela, Qui patrias voces Auloniæq; tenes: Tu decus es patriæ vocis, tu gloria lingue: Tu facis innumeros cultius ore loqui.
Insunt quippe tui tot commoda mixta libello, Aequore quot pisces, Sydera quotq; pola.
Non præter rerum species et singula verba, Non lingue ratios, non phrasis vna vacat.
Hinc vixt silcant, quicumq; in honore steterunt: Et laudem solus temporis huius habe.
Quos etenim præfens, quos aut videre vetusta Sæcula scriptores, tu Cooperi præis.
Tu Cooperi præis, præit et tua fama perennis, Fama tibi nullo diminuenta die.
Omnia nam reliquis que sunt perscripta libellis, Abis te sunt vno connumerata libro.*

I. A. C. ALFHILLVS
ad lectorem.

Laetare Iouem nymphe sub vallibus Ida: Lactantum merces tum necesse ardens erat.
Fluxit ab hoc omnis, secundo, copia cornu: Copia non-ulla commoditate cauens.
Iuppiter iccirco si dictus ab orbe iuuando, Qui fouet omne iuuans, si fouet ergo Iouem.
Copia sic nulli desit, qui talia nutrit Quae patriam fructu scribitore iuuent.
Ergo opera, lactans Coopersus in ubere Musas Exuberans cornu commoditatis habet.
Hinc, studiis iuuenes, depromite commoda vestris: Hinc, nihil, explicitum quod cupiatis, abest.
Namque, das uberior Coopersi copia cornu, Illud Amalthaea quae necesse ardens erat.

T. Valens.

En lecti tibi nunc munera maxima Coopersi nitida quae tibi das manu.
Hinc discas melius verba Britannica, Hinc discas melius verba Latinae, O felix labor hic palmae, nobilis Coopersi superans nomine splendo Thesaurus Arabum, et diuitis India.
Coopersi referens tot tibi commoda Solum, qui patriae tot bona detulit, Viuens o valeat secula Nestoris.
